PUBLISHED BY THE SENIOR CLASS
OF
WINSTON-SALEM TEACHERS COLLEGE
Winston-Salem, North Carolina

The Alma Mater

As we go forth from old T.C., a song of love we sing to thee,
And praises to the memory of days at Teachers College.
Thy Sons and Daughters bring thee fame through knowledge which we here have gained,
Exultingly we raise thy name, Oh Winston-Salem Teachers College.

As we go forth from old T.C., good leaders we will always be,
And stand for Christianity as you have taught us Teachers College.

In all we do we shall proclaim to all the world thy teaching fame,

As we go forth we praise thy name, Oh Winston-Salem Teachers College.

Foreword

"As we go forth from Old T.C. . . ." Only a faded picture of the acquaintances and experiences we have here shared remains in our memory. In order that that picture may not be erased forever, the Senior Class of Winston-Salem Teachers College proudly presents the 1956 "Ram."

In this book, we have placed only those things which we feel should never be forgotten. The items herein represent the progress of a class aspiring to prepare itself to face the challenging dilemma of a changing society.

Each page of this book is a part of the story of a class which made its debut on the campus of Winston-Salem Teachers College in 1953, and closed the curtain on that scene of the stage of time in 1957.

MRS. BESSIE JONES WHITE

Dedication

"That man never really dies who knows how to assume sufficient empire over others to be able to trace lasting marks of his energy and power over the minds of those who, under his influence, bend their steps toward the highest."

-----Yoritomo Tashi

The 1957 Senior Class deems it rare wealth to be in position to dedicate its yearbook to Mrs. Bessie Jones White, the class advisor.

We dedicate this publication to you because your power has penetrated our lives, tempering them for the bitter struggle of existence by reawakening in us a resolution toward good, success, and noble ambitions.

Our President

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

My sincere congratulations and all good wishes to the class of 1957.

The 1957 issue of the "Ram" is another evidence of the creative thinking and maturity of our Seniors.

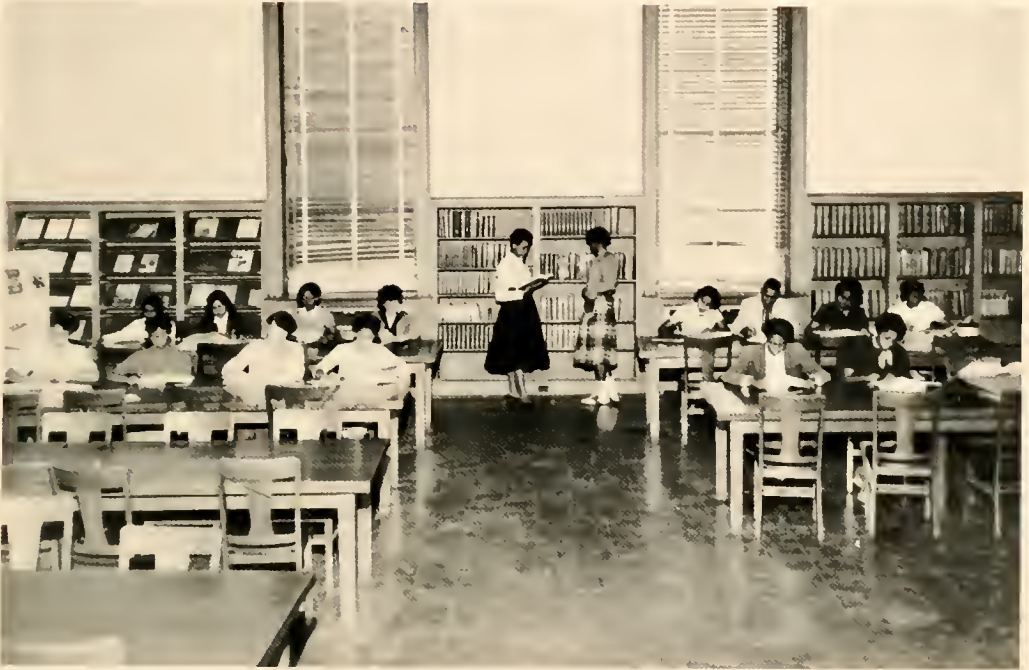

We are confident that the responsibilities that are yours as young men and women college graduates in the important political, economic and educational affairs will be welcomed and met in the tradition of the basic principles of this institution.

The Winston-Salem Teachers College is proud of its splendid groups that form its Alumni, and as you join these groups, may all success and happiness attend you and may you continue to be blessed in your service to mankind and as loyal Alumni of your Alma Mater.

Historical Notes

On September 15, 1953, we, a group of young people from various towns and cities, assembled ourselves to become a part of the Winston-Salem Teachers College. After being properly orientated, we began to take an active part in the activities on the campus. Our class was represented well in athletics, drama, and music. Very quickly we became an integral part of the college family. The school year 1953-54 passed rapidly and soon we were thrilled with the thought that we had completed our first year in college!

A brief summer vacation led us directly into our second year. By this time we were full-fledged T-C-ites! The sophomore year taught us, among other things, that college is serious business for this is when we really began to feel the weight of the academic phase of college life; but, fortunately, everyone emerged successfully. Many of us joined the Greek forces by affiliating ourselves with fraternities and sororities while others became leaders in other extra-curriculars.

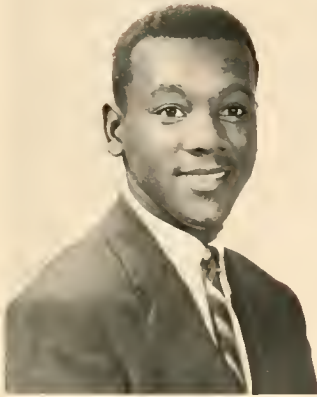

Ending the sophomore year assured us of the fact that we had reached the half-way mark and reminded us that we had just as far to go; thus, we moved into our Junior.

As Juniors, we continued to be well-represented in campus activities. At Homecoming this year we had our first opportunity to enter a candidate in the "Miss T-C Contest." We lost the race despite our tremendous efforts, but were consoled by the fact that we had still another year to enter a candidate. In the spring of our Junior year we entertained the senior class elaborately with a memorable prom, and enjoying it as much as they. With the close of this year, we looked forward to the greatest of all college years: the senior year.

Finally we reached the height of our college career! We were dignified seniors. Though we continued to be active in activities, all of us were busy, at one quarter or another, with practice teaching.

This year proved to be our busiest, but each of us was happy to be busy for the tasks we were undertaking were in preparation for our leaving; selecting class jewelry and invitations; publishing an annual; planning for class plays, exercises for class day and night; and others too numerous to mention.

Now that our college days are a part of the past, we rejoice in knowing that these four years have been profitably spent at Teachers College and are proud that our Alma Mater has been instrumental in shaping our future.

Senior School Of Nursing

Director's Message

Nursing as a profession has become a vital force in society in attempting to meet the health needs of man. Health and medical agencies are in a period of rapid expansion. Although more people are now engaged in nursing than in any of the other groups of health professions, the demand for additional professional nurses far exceeds the supply.

The enlarging scope of nursing and the increasing complexity of the nurse's role have changed patterns of nursing service; thus, the basic preparation of the nursing student has undergone some important changes. Collegiate education for nurses is one of the most notable changes which evolved to meet the challenge of our present health needs. In the collegiate program for nurses the curriculum includes general education courses which are selected to give the student the background she needs to understand herself and her patient, to understand more fully the scientific facts underlying her work, and to work cooperatively with others in solving health and related problems. Nursing education in a college setting gives the nursing student an opportunity to attend classes with students of other programs and to share in all college activities. The opportunities the student has for gaining insight into human relationships are rich and varied. All these help to prepare the student for a profession which is rich in associations with people and in personal satisfaction which comes from serving others.

The Yearbook Staff

MESSAGE FROM THE STAFF

To publish a yearbook was one of the major objectives of the senior class; and to accomplish this objective became the task of the RAM staff upon whom the class depended to steer the procedures. The staff gratefully acknowledges the class's confidence and its wonderful cooperation, both of which were requisites in undertaking and completing this job.

Although each senior will see the results of the staff's endeavors, only those who actually applied hands and time to the task are aware of the work involved. These are the persons who have worked assiduously arranging layouts, proofreading copy, pleading with printers to waive deadlines, wearing typewriter ribbons thin, making financial ends meet, wearing out shoe soles in order to solicit ads, and coping with unforeseen, and sometimes adverse, circumstances.

Despite the energy expended in order to bring forth this year's RAM, the staff deems it a genuine pleasure to have served the class of 1957.
